ALWAYS use fresh E10 in outdoor power equipment

Using fuel stabilizer is the only way to prevent gasoline from going stale and combat the issues associated with ethanol-blended fuels. The easiest way to use a fuel treatment is to “treat” fresh gasoline when filling up your gas can at the gas station.

Skip the extra step: Use Engineered, Canned Ethanol-Free Fuel

Did you know you can buy ethanol-free fuel that is pre-treated with fuel stabilizer? No mixing or mess required, just pour fuel directly into equipment and the convenient, ready-to-use solution will protect your engine and maintain performance.

NOTE:

The use of E15 or E85 gasoline or repairs associated with bad fuel can void an engine’s warranty. E10 or lower is OK for use, but fuel treatment is always recommended for outdoor power equipment.

A man wearing a blue long-sleeved shirt, tan pants, a black helmet with orange accents, and safety glasses is standing in a forest. He is holding a STIHL chainsaw with an orange and black body. A large, fallen tree trunk lies on the ground in front of him. The background is filled with green trees and foliage.
